Rheumatism,
BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H.

Monstrous Power of Sea Breakers.

From experiments made last month at Bell Rock and Skerryvole lighthouses, on the coast of Scotland, it was found that while the force of the breakers on the side of the German ocean may be taken at about a ton and a half to every square foot of exposed surface, the Atlantic side throws breakers with double that force, or three tons to the square foot; thus a surface of only two square yards sustains a blow from a heavy Atlantic breaker equal to fifty-four tons.

In March of this year a heavy gale blew for three days and nights at Skerryvole, washing out blocks of limestone and granite of three and five tons weight as easily as if they had been empty egg shells, in some cases throwing them entirely over the breakwater at Plymouth. Over 800 tons of such blocks were washed 300 feet up the inclined beach after being thrown over the breakwater and scattered about in various directions.

One block of limestone, estimated to be of fifteen tons weight, was moved over 150 feet from a place in the surf where it had been firmly grounded since 1697, it having first been rolled in sight by the awful gale of the "Windy Christmas" of that year. This is quite a high sea record for 1890, showing that the gale of March 8 was the worst known on the Scottish coast for 193 years.—Chicago Times.

Black Hills Tin Mines.

Joseph Hare, editor of The Tin Miner, of Hill City, S. D., in speaking of the tin mines at that place, says: "Hill City is situated exactly in the center of the tin belt, which is in the shape of a half moon, and is about thirty miles in length and three miles wide. We are twenty-eight miles from Rapid City, the nearest railroad point.

"The richness of these mines is simply wonderful, and one who has not been there can hardly believe it, but I state a fact when I tell you that there is enough tin on the dumps and in sight now to supply the United States for five years. As soon as the big mill is started at Hill City we shall then be able to ship the tin out in bars. Some of these mines have been pushed down 240 feet, and the deeper the richer.

"The vein is eight feet thick and dips toward the east at an angle of about 45 degs. Some of the mines average 27½ per cent. of metallic tin, and the whole ledge averages 10 per cent. The capitalists interested are mostly New York and English men. The larger part of the capital is furnished by New York men."

A Kite Story.

Some fishermen engaged in Belfast lough recently picked up a very large seagull which was seen approaching the boat with wings outspread, floating on the water, but quite dead. The men were puzzled to account for the progress it made through the water, as it went faster than the boat; but as it came near it was found that, wound securely round the body and under the wings, was a string or cordage, which on closer examination they discovered was attached to a large paper kite then flying above them at a considerable height. The kite furnished the propelling power. The bird had evidently, while flying at Belfast, got entangled in the string of a boy's kite, had been unable to extricate itself, and taking to the sea had been drowned in its efforts to obtain freedom. —Exchange.

A New Refuge for Paris.

By the death of M. Pruvot, a landed proprietor, who lived in the Boulevard de Courcelles, and left behind him a fortune of £80,000, the city of Paris has received a legacy of nearly £40,000. The testator left instructions that the chief portion of this amount is to be used for the construction and maintenance of a "Night Shelter for the Homeless and Destitute Poor in the Seventeenth Arrondissement," which includes the districts of the Ternes, the Plaine-Monceau, the Batignolles and the Epinettes. He has also left a considerable sum for benevolent purposes among the young to the town of Solesmes, where he had a residence.—London Telegraph.

Lawlessness North and South.

There is a familiar tone in the dispatches which tell of the efforts of White Caps near Bangor to tar and feather somebody. "The sympathy of the people is so strongly with them," the reports say, "that the authorities will make no efforts whatever to prevent the carrying out of their threats."

Such news sometimes comes from the south, and then it is generally seized upon by papers hostile to that sunny section as a text to point the moral that life and property are not safe down there, and that the authorities are in sympathy with the law breakers to such an extent that crime goes unpunished.

Up in Maine, a good, respectable New England state, of course it's different. The lawbreakers up there wear white caps, while those down south wear black ones.

Come, now, let's be fair. Shouldn't these little episodes in New England life teach us that human nature is very much the same on both sides of Mason and Dixon's line? Wherefore pluck out the beam that is in the eye of our southern neighbors while we still have quite a sizable mote bothering our own eye? —Boston Globe.

Brilliant Venus.

Venus, the fairest of the stars, shines like a young moon on September evenings. She is visible almost as soon as the sun disappears, and may be seen at noonday by observers who know where to look. The time of her visibility is, however, lessened by her southern declination, which shortens her stay above the horizon. She reaches her greatest eastern elongation on the 23d, when she is as far east of the sun as possible, and begins to retrace her steps toward him, becoming larger and brighter as she approaches the earth until Oct. 29, when she reaches her greatest brilliancy.—Youth's Companion.

Money in Grass.

One of the summer industries at Old Orchard beach has been the gathering and the sale of "sweet grass," a kind of green thatch that grows quite plentifully along the sea wall. It has a peculiarly rich odor and a small package in bureau drawers or a close room gives out its fragrance for weeks and months. One little fellow has peddled $35 worth of grass among the hotel guests this season. Parties do a thriving business filling orders for grass from all parts of the country. Sermons in stones, books in running brooks and dollars in everything.—Exchange.

The Wail of the M. D.'s.

First Doctor—This depression in my business is awful. We shall die in abject poverty.

Second Doctor—Same here. No cholera morbus, no colic, nothing remunerative. And all because fruit is too dear to be within reach of the masses.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

Big Potatoes.

George L. Bartlett has had on exhibition one hill of potatoes which were dug upon his land on Clifton which consisted of thirteen potatoes, the smallest of which weighed over half a pound. —Ansonia (Conn.) Sentinel.

The African Pygmies.

The name of dwarfs, applied by some to these people, has been objected to as implying deformity or arrested growth, and therefore conveying a wrong impression. Nothing of the kind can be said of the African pygmies, who, though of short stature, are well shaped people of perfectly normal formation. It is true that the Hottentots and Bushmen show certain strange anatomical peculiarities, but these may be said to be more or less accidental, being, in part at least, the result of special and unfavorable conditions of life.

The pygmies are nomadic in their habits, and neither keep cattle nor till the ground, but live by hunting and snaring wild animals and birds, or, under the most unfavorable circumstances, on wild fruits, roots and berries. Their weapons are always bows and arrows, the latter usually poisoned—the resource of the weak.

They have no fixed abode, and if they build shelters at all only construct rude huts of branches. They have no government, nor do they form regular communities, they usually wander about, like our gypsies, in hordes composed of a few families each. This, however, depends on the nature of the country—in the parched deserts of the south they are not even united to this extent. Sometimes they are to a certain extent dependent on more powerful tribes, who afford them protection in return for certain services. Their notions of the Unseen, when they have any, would appear to be of the very crudest. Their languages seem to be distinct from others, related among themselves and very peculiar.—A. Werner in Popular Science Monthly.

New Finds at Pompeii.

At Pompeii some mural paintings of more than ordinary interest have recently been disclosed. In the Eighth Region, between Nos. 16 and 21 of the Second Insula, via III and IV, the remarkable discovery has been made of a house five stories high. The upper floor, which is entered from the higher level formed by a mound of prehistoric lava, is profusely decorated, and the principal hall displays on one wall the myth of Bellerophon, a nude figure, who, holding with one hand the bridle of his horse, is in the act of receiving the letters and orders of King Prœtus, who is seated on a throne before him.

The lower part of the house, looking toward Stabiæ and the sea, was used as a bathing establishment. Three steps led into the frigidarium, which is perfect, the lower part of the surrounding walls being painted blue and the upper red. The middle of the right wall is occupied by a picture representing a nymph, semi-nude, borne over the waves on a sea horse. The horizontal band dividing the blue from the red surface is a kind of frieze of comic or caricature scenes, representing dwarfs or pigmies, in scenery evidently of the Nile country, fighting with various animals. One dwarf is in the act of throwing a large stone at an ibis, while another is trying to save by drawing to the land a figure (probably a woman) fallen into the river, when, seized himself by a crocodile, he has tied himself with a rope to another dwarf standing behind, who is striving with might and main to prevent his comrade from being drawn down into the water.—London Athenæum.

He Leaned on His Luck.

"I had a most extraordinary piece of luck last Sunday," remarked a young broker a day or two ago, "and for it I have been thanking a kind providence ever since. I invited a girl cousin to go down to Long Beach for the afternoon, take supper there and return in the early evening. After we started I discovered that I had somehow brought only $2.90 with me. I had one railroad ticket, but with another required, two suppers, car fares and ferriage, figure as I wanted, I was just about twenty cents short. It was one of those horrible cases of smiling and joking without, and a sort of whited sepulcher within, wondering wildly how to pull through.

"We reached the beach, and I was revolving the plan of throwing myself on the mercy of the clerk and offering a check, when we stopped in our stroll along shore to examine some shells and seaweed, when blamed if lying right at my feet wasn't thirty cents—a quarter and a nickel.

"I stooped down and picked them up in a hurry.

"'What have you found?' asked my companion.

"'A little silver,' I said carelessly.

"'Oh, how lovely. How much?'

"'Only thirty cents,' I said, as though I was disappointed at not finding a bag of it. I wasn't disappointed. Never was so happy in my life. It was just enough to pull me through, and I reached home with ten cents, but I tell you it don't do to lean on your luck like that every day."—New York Tribune.

Grapes.

Eat grapes. In the morning before breakfast they aid digestion. A bunch of perfectly formed, ripe grapes is as beautiful as a flower, and appeals at once to the appetite and æsthetic sense. The salts and acids in this fruit drive away gout, rheumatism and dyspepsia. The grape cure establishments of Europe bring benefit to many patients. Most people eat soggy, heavy food that in time makes their wits of that character, too. But the grape! There are wit and quickness in the very flavor of it, gently acid and biting, likewise penetrating.

The grape packers nearly ruin themselves occasionally by sending unripe, sour fruit to market. One taste of such is enough. The trapped buyer, with wry face, vows he will never touch that kind of grape again, and he keeps his vow. The reputation of one really good table grape was well nigh destroyed simply because the farmers either did not know when it was ripe or would not wait till then. If you raise table grapes, let the bunches thoroughly ripen, then clip them tenderly off with shears. Pick off the green and defective ones and pack the rest carefully in a tray. Then they will reach the market looking like what they are, food for the gods.

Lived on Three Cents a Day.

George Gilbert, a miser, aged 70, was found dead at his residence in Beardman. During the past fifty years he had lived alone, devoting his time to saving money, which he deposited in the banks. It was his boast that his living the year round did not cost him over three cents per day. In 1855 he sold a neighbor a load of hay for $27. Gilbert punctually collected the interest each year, and last year accepted the principal, it having earned him over $100. Gilbert leaves an estate valued at $125,000 to $150,000, and has no relatives residing in this section.—Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

Ex-President Andrew D. White has made a great discovery. He announces in The Popular Science Monthly that some human skulls have been found at Cro Magnon and elsewhere amid surroundings that indicate a lower order of civilization than that which now exists.

Bees Hinder a Train.

A swarm of bees created a block in a curious manner on the Perkiomen railroad the other day. A freight train running between Perkiomen Junction and Allentown, Pa., stopped to take water at Palm station, twenty miles north. A swarm of bees from a neighboring farm house had taken refuge in some woods near by, and when the train stopped at the station they came buzzing out and alighted with one accord on the tender behind the engine.

The engineer and his assistant in the engine and the brakemen standing around the train were astonished at the visitation and promptly sought safety in the waiting room of the station. The fireman, William Heist, was on the engine cab at the time busily shifting coal from one side of the tender to the other, and in an instant a hundred bees set upon him. Half mad with pain he jumped off the tender and rolled wildly in the grass at the roadside.

The schedule time for starting the train came and went, but the crew saw no way in which to start. They held a consultation over the problem, and finally a bright idea struck the engineer. Putting it into execution he crept softly and unconcernedly up to the tender, after the manner of an experienced bee farmer, and secured possession of the adjustable hose with which engineers are accustomed to clean up their cabs. He got the drop on the bees and turned on them a steady stream of cold water. The effect was magical. The entire swarm took to their wings and described a straight line—a bee line—toward the woods. The train then resumed its journey, fifteen minutes behind time.—Cor. New York Sun.

A Little Heroine.

Jeanne Victoire Snooke, 10 years of age, the daughter of C. Snooke, of Portsmouth, England, was on April 26, 1890, with her brother James, aged 4 years, on the landing stage of the old sallyport at Portsmouth—a place which is a favorite resort of children. Suddenly Jeanne was startled by the fact that her brother had fallen into the water, which was then twelve feet deep. Without a moment's thought about self, Jeanne sprang into the sea to the rescue. The struggle was great, and both of the little ones sank and rose to the surface continually, but the brave elder child never quitted her hold of her brother. The tide was running strong and carried them away from the stage, and both must have been drowned had not H. Craven, of the chamberlain's office, Portsmouth, who was coming out of the harbor in a boat, gone to their rescue and got the half drowned, struggling children out of the water. For this act of bravery Miss Snooke was, on the 20th of May following, awarded the honorary first class certificate of the Royal Humane society.—Philadelphia Times.

Jews Going to Palestine.

A convention of delegates representing the largest Jewish colonies in thirty-six different cities of Russia met ten months ago, and after a long discussion they gave a unanimous vote for Palestine as their future home.

The change that such an emigration would produce on the Holy Land cannot be overestimated. One million new workers would turn the barren hills of Judea into terraced vineyards. The olive trees of the past would again spring forth, and the whole land would blossom like the red poppies that cover the plains of Sharon. It would mean the adding of 150 per cent. to the population of the land occupied by ancient Palestine, and it would make Jerusalem a city of more than 100,000 people.

The Holy City has been growing with almost American rapidity within the past few years, and an exodus of the Jews from all parts of the world to it is slowly but surely going on.—Frank G. Carpenter in National Tribune.

Be Careful of Your Derby in Summer.

"Derby hats must be handled with velvety touch in summer." Few people are aware of the fact that the great heat at this season of the year softens a stiff hat so much that it can almost be rolled up into a ball. That's why the crown should be handled as little as possible, because it is the easiest thing in the world to dent the hat when it is soft, and the mark will stay there forever. The hat is all right if you don't touch the crown while it is soft, because it regains its natural stiffness as soon as cold weather cools it off. If you hold a derby hat near a hot stove it will lose its stiffness in a few moments and be limp as a rag.—New York Journal.

Increase of Railway Mileage.

The increase in railway mileage in this country during the first six months of the year was 1,893 miles. This is accounted highly creditable. More miles of railroad have been constructed in the southern states than in any other section of the country. The northwestern states and territories, where construction went on rapidly for a while, have nearly stopped building. Massachusetts laid but a mile and a half of new road. Maine about ten miles. The other New England states stood still. California gained one mile.—Chicago News.

Girls on Race Horses.

John C. Moore, a rancher near Moore Station, permitted two of his daughters to ride a couple of race horses he owns, one of them, Gold Dust, being well known for speed. The girls rode with surcingles only, but the horses became unmanageable. Being two of them and supposing themselves matched for a race, the high bred animals dashed away with their inexperienced riders. The girls were soon thrown off and dragged a short distance. One had her arm broken, and the other was injured internally.—Chico (Cal.) Chronicle.

Two Sharks.

A Hazelton lawyer went into the surf at Cape May recently and encountered a big shark. Their eyes met for an instant in what seemed a friendly recognition, and then each went his way.—Hazelton (Pa.) Sentinel.

A Vegetable Wonder.

A remarkable vegetable or horticultural curiosity is to be exhibited at the next state fair in California. Several weeks ago a grapevine growing in close proximity to an apple tree was found to have a bloom similar to those on the tree. Finally a handsome apple has developed, which will be exhibited as above mentioned as proof of an abnormal growth, which seems to be natural grafting.—St. Louis Republic.

A veteran athlete, known as "Old Vetter Michael," although passed his eightieth year, recently climbed to the top of the spire of the parish church of Saar-Alben, Germany, which is 182 feet high, and stayed there some minutes, turning the weathercock round and round and performing a few gymnastic feats.

Lord Randolph Churchill is a great consumer of cigarettes, smoking almost as many as Henry Labouchere, the editor. Nearly all the men in public life in England, except Mr. Gladstone, use tobacco.

Buying Christmas Presents.

"I've been about among the summer shops all the morning," said one lady to another on the piazza of a Saratoga hotel recently, "and I have picked up quite an accumulation of Christmas gifts. I always buy them at this time," she went on, "and put them away until just before the holidays, when I sort them out. In that way I avoid any rush and fatigue at the last moment." Three or four of her companions agreed with her, but one, a vivacious young woman, dissented emphatically.

"I call that dreadful," she announced. "Fancy selecting Christmas presents in cold blood as it were. I could never do it. I should be guided by economy and prudence, I know, and pull my purse strings together. I never buy a single present till the genuine Christmas fever is on me; till the shops are gay with pretty things and crowded with shoppers. Then I join the throng and share the infatuation. I rush right and left all day long and am in an agony of suspense and indecision; what I want finally comes to me by inspiration, and then it is such a satisfaction to have settled upon it.

"Why, half the joy of the season would be lost to me without that delightful rush and bustle and worry. It seems to me almost sacrilegious to take Christmas time by the forelock. I positively could not do it." All of which goes to show how complex and intricate a thing is a woman's method of reasoning.—New York Times.

The Waste at a Summer Hotel.

In accordance with the long established and destructive idea which has prevailed in the best hotels of the United States from time immemorial, at least twice as much food is served as the guest can eat. The result is that at least fifty barrels of waste are carted away from this hotel each day by a man employed for that purpose. In the rush consequent upon the feeding of so many persons silverware and other articles in use in the dining rooms are constantly being thrown into the receptacles for this waste material, and consequently the services of one man are required to search and rescue these utensils.

At a certain seaside hotel 3,000 persons can be fed at one time. One Saturday and Sunday nearly 20,000 persons were catered to between the hours of 11:30 a. m. and 1 p. m. Judging from the amount of food devoured, every man, woman and child visiting the beach that day must have been hungry. The value of the silverware and crockery used by this immense crowd amounted in the aggregate to $30,000. Each one required three napkins, one for personal use and the other two for the waiter's use. Five plates were used with each order, no matter how trivial, which ran the total number of pieces of crockery up to 75,000.—New York World.

Millions of Crickets.

For the past three years about the middle of August Dallas was visited by a flight of small hardshell beetles, which at night would strew themselves over the sidewalks and occasionally crawl down the backs of passersby. This year there has been a change in the programme, and instead of beetles there has come a visitation of crickets of the singing variety, which has been immortalized by the poet who wrote "The Cricket on the Hearth." A single cricket hidden away behind a large firebrick occasionally touches a tender chord, but when the horny looking things cluster by millions, frying in the electric lights and crawling over the sidewalks, the idea of the poetic gives way to that of the hideous. The creatures seemed to descend from the clouds, as if attracted by the electric lights while migrating in the upper regions of the atmosphere. The dip of their descent was toward the south, indicating that they came from the north.—Dallas News.

His Arm Torn Off.

An employe in a Cincinnati brewery met with a frightful accident a few days ago. An endless belt, in which are large hooks for holding the beer kegs, runs up and down through the hatchway. He was working on the first floor, and there being no lights burning he walked into the shaft. He fell about seven feet, and his arm catching on one of the hooks the member was torn open from the shoulder to the wrist, and he was held there for fifteen minutes before his fellow workmen succeeded in releasing him. He received a terrible shock, but it is thought that only for catching on the hook he would have been dashed to death on the cellar floor eighteen feet below.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Daring Photographer.

A daring feat in photography was performed last week by George H. Baily, of Boston. He succeeded in getting a fine negative of a blast of a ledge near Savin Hill, one of the largest on record, in which 250 pounds of dynamite were used. He did it at the risk of being crushed by some huge rock, and moved himself and camera out of the way just as a bowlder several tons in weight was about to land dangerously near him. The picture was taken just as the dust and stones had reached their highest elevation, and is as interesting as it is rare. —Boston Letter.

Manuscript Kept Ten Years.

Ten years ago the late H. W. Richardson, of The Portland Avertiser, wrote an article on "The Metric System" for Harper's Magazine. It is printed this month. This is a neighborly illustration of the enormous pressure on the pages of our great periodicals, and the small chance of an author's getting into them unless he has first made a great reputation. Harper's would not wait ten years to publish an article by Tolstoi or Stockton.—Lewiston Journal.

In a New York Boarding House.

The dinner supplied to her household last Sunday by a Lexington avenue landlady was soup and watermelon, and after the meal was over the boarders sat on the front steps and wondered why they had teeth.—New York Tribune.

According to the secretary of the National Cranberry association the cranberry crop will be 20 per cent. larger this year than in 1889. The crop last year amounted to 185,000 bushels.

Capt. Tillman, the leader of the farmers' movement in South Carolina, owns 1,800 acres of land, runs twenty plows and has a dairy supplied by forty thoroughbred Jersey cows.

Frederick H. Hassam, the antiquarian, of New York, is to make ex-President Cleveland a present of Daniel Webster's rod, reel, wicker flask and fishing hat.

Jupiter and Venus.

Jupiter is the evening star, and exceeds in radiant light every other star in the heavens excepting Venus, while he has the advantage of his rival in remaining much longer above the horizon, as well as in shining from the dark background of the midnight sky. Jupiter is not in the most favorable conditions for observation, for he is receding from the earth, and like Venus is low down in the south.—Youth's Companion.

Blunted His Dignity.

Fountaine, of Narford, is a name of worthy associations in the minds of Norfolk men, and one which must be familiar to all readers of Swift's correspondence, but its present holder's latest achievement has certainly not added anything to its luster. Mr. Fountaine, of Narford Hall, is a justice of the peace, deputy lieutenant and master of the West Norfolk foxhounds, and he appears to have been under the impression that these accumulated dignities entitled him to the privilege of having an express train stopped whenever he pleased for his especial convenience.

The station master at the little station of Eastwinch not seeing things in this light, Mr. Fountaine stepped out at once upon the four foot way, and by gesticulating and throwing his arms aloft contrived to stop the train for himself. The driver not unnaturally inferred that something serious was the matter until he pulled up, on which Mr. Fountaine coolly climbed into a first class carriage and gave the word to proceed. This curious escapade has imposed on the magistrates of the Swaffham quarter sessions the painful duty of fining a brother justice and deputy lieutenant £25, and binding him over to keep the peace. The punishment cannot be said to err on the side of severity.—London News.

A Game Old Hen.

A game hen died on R. W. Gamble's place at Cuthbert, Ga., a few days ago. This hen had reached the age of 14 years, lacking only a few weeks. She continued to lay eggs until a year before she died. For several months she had been totally blind, but was fed and watered regularly by Miss Mary Gamble. In 1886, when Mr. Gamble moved to Macon, this hen was carried there and brought back when he returned to Cuthbert. In the spring of 1887, when the cyclone struck Mr. Gamble's place and tore things up, this old hen was setting in a box on the kitchen hearth. The kitchen was blown away, the chimney was missing, but the hearth remained, and there sat the old hen in her box, as composed as though nothing had happened.—Chicago Herald.

In an Indian Mound.

Dr. J. F. Snyder, a Virginia, Ills., archæologist, has just returned home from Schuyler county, Ills., where he opened an Indian mound. The corpse was in the tumulus of a chief. It had been laid with the head to the east. On the forehead of the decayed skeleton was found a crescent shaped ornament of thin, hammered copper. On the breast had been placed a large sheet of mica that no doubt had served as a mirror. On one side of the skull was a small pottery vase of peculiar form. In one hand was a small stone ax, and in the other several arrows and spearheads of flint, a few bone awls and fragments of a large sea shell.—Chicago Herald.

Old Coin Discovered.

A laborer around the grounds of Henry Miller, of Chappaqua, N. Y., is reported to have found a short time ago beneath a large stone a considerable amount of money in gold coin, which evidently was hidden long ago, as many of the coins bear dates over 100 years old. The coin is mostly in British gold sovereigns and half-sovereigns. The value of the find is variously estimated at from $100 to $300.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Wild Cuban.

The most interesting inmate of Bloomingdale Insane asylum, however, is a young Cuban, whose family is an enormously wealthy one in the city of Cardenas, Cuba. He has been in the institution a year, and has improved so much that his family intend to take him home shortly.

He is a medium sized man of 23 years, with soft brown eyes, curly brown hair and a beautifully clear complexion. He does not speak a word of English, but converses fluently in Spanish and French.

When he first entered the place he was wild, and severely thrashed several of the attendants. The minute they turned their eyes away from him he would pounce upon them with the agility and ferocity of a tiger, and punch and kick them until he was overpowered. Now he has the quietest and most gentlemanly manners in the world, and receives all visitors with a courtly hospitality.—New York Journal.

On an Ocean Racer.

An Ohio clergyman thus writes of his experience on one of the ocean racers: "I have made my last trip on a racing steamer. We left thirty minutes ahead of the Teutonic, and the speed maintained was terrific. On Saturday night the heat was so oppressive in the cabins that everybody had to go on deck, and it was found that the great speed had overheated the machinery; but there was no check until Sunday, when the passengers became alarmed, and the engines were slowed down to allow the machinery to cool. If the speed had been kept up for a few hours the vessel, with all on board, would have gone to the bottom."

Fighting a Wildcat.

George A. Taylor, an express messenger, had a frightful experience the other night on his run from Kansas City to St. Louis. Among the packages intrusted to his care was a box containing two wildcats. One of them got out of the box and sprang at Taylor. The messenger picked up a piece of tarpaulin, which he held in front of him, and its claws became fastened in the canvas. Taylor kicked the brute loose, but it returned to the attack again and again. At last he threw the canvas around the cat, and thus imprisoned he got hold of a coupling pin and knocked it into insensibility.—Exchange.

Baltimore's Oyster Season.

Oysters will not be plentiful until the middle of October, when the dredging season opens and the great oyster fleet, consisting of large schooners, pungies, bugeyes, etc., begins operations. A rushing business is then done about the retail wharves, and the harbor front is alive with oyster merchants and men seeking employment. The lower harbor now is well filled with craft of every description waiting the opening of the dredging season, and the prospects are very bright.—Baltimore News.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1890.

That "all men are born free and equal" is the fundamental doctrine upon which rests our political fabric. Principles of justice and equality pervade every sentiment of the constitution of our government. Upon these general principles all men are equal before the law. But right here another question intervenes. Are all men born to free and equal opportunities?

Under our declaration of rights and the interpretation of the Constitution we believe that they are, as a rule, upon these general grounds we believe that our forefathers bled and died, that they might bequeath to their posterity such an heritage. Then what has changed the condition that men are no longer born to free and equal opportunities? Under our form of free and independent government the seeds of monopoly should never have been allowed to exist. This was designed to be a government "of the people, for the people and by the people", but instead we have a government of Corporations, for corporations and by corporations. And monopoly is stronger than the people.

Monopoly has enslaved labor, ruined agriculture and destroyed their prosperity, but enhanced its own fortunes a thousand fold through robberies from the people. Its lobbies dictate what laws shall be passed in state and nation for its own interest, while the laborer and farmer may plead in vain for the least favors. Monopoly is the worst despot the greatest tyrant, the most rabid aristocrat that was ever enthroned in any government—hence the contrast in a free country between monopoly and the people is appalling. And the more so, because here, in America it is a creature of the people and assumes to dictate and rule over them with a rod of iron, and rob them at its will. Unless the people destroy the power of monopoly, or monopoly itself, they can never hope to recover their former prestige and independence But how can this be done since a majority of our officials that we elect to place and power are either of, or representatives of monopoly? Their interests demand reciprocal measures to sustain their power, and they are not slow in bestowing them. Our independent government is an experiment and the signs of the times indicate its drifting into a great centralized monarchical power; and monopoly is pushing it there as rapidly as possible. J. C. W.

Be On Your Guard.

The present condition of the campaign is such as to assure a Democratic victory at the polls in November. This is a fact that is patent to the leaders of both parties and wherever the masses of the people have become acquainted with the true situation of affairs the same opinion is also beginning to prevail. Knowing this to be the case the managers of Republican campaign in the State are leaving no stone unturned to deceive the people and create the impression that causes of great dissatisfaction exist in the Democratic ranks which are slowly but surely working the defeat of the ticket.

They are assiduously endeavoring to make it appear that the Democracy of Philadelphia are in a bad shape and that a large majority for the Republican ticket will be the sure outcome. The purpose of this is manifest for it is well understood by these schemers that the Democracy in the country remembering the bitter experiences of the past are ready to become discouraged at the first ill reports that come from this Republican stronghold.

Let the people be warned in time. These reports are simply the fabrications of the Republican leaders. Disaffection among the Democracy of Philadelphia does not exist, on the contrary the Democratic party and the Democratic organization in that city have not been in better shape for many years. True there exist some local factional disturbances but the results of these will not be of a serious character and will not extend any farther than through the districts where they exist. On the other hand the Republicans are in sore straits. They see the lists of Republicans who will not support their candidate for Governor but who on the contrary will cast their votes for Governor Pattison, daily increasing; they see the prominent and influental men of their party either indifferent or in open opposition to the methods of Quay; they know that a large Republican vote will be cast for Governor Pattison in the city of Philadelphia and they know of a certainty that if anything like a fair percentage of the Democratic vote in the State shall be brought to the polls in November, that Governor Pattison will be elected by a handsome majority.

Their plan therefore is to discourage the Democracy of the State by disseminating these stories in connection with the condition of political affairs in Philadelphia. No intelligent Democrat should be misled by any such reports, from whatever sources they emanate but, understanding the situation as it really exists, should make every effort in his power to encourage his Democratic neighbor to go to the polls and vote and to inspire him with the belief that if he and his fellow Democrats do their duty, that this State will surely be redeemed from the grasp of Quayism

Senatorial Conference.

The Senatorial conference of the Twenty fourth district met at Crawford House, Williamsport, on Thursday of last week at two o'clock in the afternoon. W. H. Rhawn, one of the conferees from Columbia County, was made chairman, and John Finan from Sullivan County was made Secretary. Twenty three ballots were taken Thursday afternoon resulting in each pair of conferees voting for their own candidate. An adjournment was then had to Friday morning, nine o'clock. Ballots were taken throughout the whole of Friday, resulting in four votes for Hoffa, two votes for Lull, and two votes for Herring. On Saturday morning the conference convened again when Sullivan County came to Herring and the voting up to three o'clock Saturday afternoon was four for Herring, and four for Hoffa. At 3.20 P. M. one of Lycoming's conferees dropped to Herring which gave him five votes to Hoffas three, resulting in Hering's nomination.

The conferees from Columbia county were W. H. Rhawn and J. R. Townsend. M. J. Lull was the candidate from Sullivan, represented by Jerry Deegan and John Finan, as conferees. W. S. Montgomery was the candidate from Lycoming, and he had for his conferees John Hopkins, Deputy Prothonotary of Lycoming County, and Reg. Mehrlin from Hughesville. Dr. Hoffa from Washingtonville was the candidate from Montour, and had for his conferees, Judge John Benfield and William Bortz. The nomination was made on the 173rd ballot. Columbia County owes the nomination to the faithfulness of M. J. Lull, candidate from Sullivan, who could not be coaxed or driven from his support of Columbia County. Lycoming County favored Montour for at least 75 ballots and left no stone unturned to secure nomination of Dr. Hoffa. It is therefore but justice to say that if Columbia County ever has an opportunity of doing a like friendly turn for Sullivan County, it will be her duty to do so. Nothing but most friendly feeling existed in the conference of three days duration. After the fight was over Montour County's candidate and his conferees being anxious to take the 3,35 train, were unable to stay and celebrate the occasion by the festivities proffered. The remaining candidates and conferees, together with friends from Williamsport and vicinity enjoyed this for an hour or two, when all left on the 4 15 train. The accommodations at the Crawford House were equal to the occasion, and everybody left well pleased with the kindly manner in which they had been treated and impressed with the hospitality of the land-lord. A peculiar feature about the conference was the almost total absence of political heelers from any direction. The members of the conference were unmolested by the affairs which usually serve to make unpleasant political conferences. A strong effort was made on the part of Montour County to have the conference adjourned until next week, when the vote stood four for Herring and four for Hoffa, and allow the matter to be then dead-locked for that period of time at least, but the time being short before the election and there seeming to be no hope for Lycoming County to make the nomination of Hoffa, by delay, the good sense of one of the conferees of Lycoming prevailed to break the deadlock by casting his vote for Herring.

TO THE COLUMBIAN.

The Journal of the nineteenth annual convention of the Episcopal church in the Diocese of Central Pennsylvania makes a volume of 277 Pages. From the Summaries of the report of the Archdeaconries, I make the following abstract:

Clergymen including the Bishops	110
Parishes and Missions	150
Communicants in 95 Parishes	9612
Sunday School in 96 Parishes	13.853
Offerings Parochial	$199.486.52
Diocesan	33 679,43
Extra	13.001.98
	$246.167.93

But three Parishes in the Diocese date their organization earlier than 1800. They are St. Gabriel's, Douglassville 1785, St. John's York, 1785, St. Paul's Bloomsburg 1793. Our centennial therefore is coming on apace and we ought to do something grand to meet and welcome it. What shall it be? Shall we put the spire on the church? or shall we build the parish House? or better still shall we do both? A "History of the Parish" for the hundred years ought to be prepared; and all who can give facts, names and dates should furnish them to the Rector, for that purpose. Write them down and send them at once, right away, immediately.

Delicate Ladies!

HISTORICAL.

TO THE COLUMBIAN:

In the Pennsylvania Magazine, published by the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, VOL XIV, page 313, is an itinerary of a trip made by Cadwalader Foulke in 1823, which brings to our notice several names and matters worthy to be remembered. In one of the trips he passed through Bloomsburg, but for the present, I follow the first one made. The turnpike of which he speaks is the "Susquehanna and Tioga," extending from Berwick on the Susquehanna across the mountain to Newtown on the Tioga. The Act for its construction was passed March 28, 1806. It is said that the State subscribed over $30,000 towards its stock. You will observe that the pike passes Long Pond, but no mention is made of the lake and no stop there. You will find other names however quite familiar. I only three days travel.

"Sept. 9th. Left Meansville (Towanda) at 8 o'clock; 3½ miles to the turnpike at Towanda creek, at Wilcocks's; 11½ miles to Miller's, turnpike toll .52; to Amos Ellis', 11 miles, over night.

10th. 12 miles to Joseph Watson's, at the middle gate, expenses, including toll, .62½; to Koon'stown, (this is New Columbus), 9 miles, 45 cents, toll 6¼ cents; to Berwick, 12 miles, over night at John Jones'.

11th Bill, $2.75; 11 miles to Ab'm. Klatz's expenses .37½; over Niscopach Mt. to Felix Bisel's, 13 miles; over the Buck and Spring Mts. into Quakake Valley, 8 miles; Mauch Chunk, over night."

He records that he spent 18 days, and his whole expenses, including attorney's fees, prothonotary's and recorder's fees was only $27.73½. This is notable travelling, and could not be done at the present day.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo O, contains no mercury and is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Sold by Druggists, 75c. per bottle. 9-19 4-t.

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other.

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it." MRS. ELLA A. GOFF, 61 Terrace Street, Boston.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.:

Sirs:—Last Summer I cured a Curb upon my horse with your celebrated Kendall's Spavin Cure and it was the best job I ever saw done. I have a dozen empty bottles, having used it with perfect success, curing every thing I tried it on. My neighbor had a horse with a very bad Spavin that made him lame. He asked me how to cure it. I recommended Kendall's Spavin Cure. He cured the Spavin in just three weeks.

Yours respectfully,
WOLCOTT WITTER.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 4, '90.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.:

Dear Sirs:—I have been selling more of Kendall's Spavin Cure and Flint's Condition Powders than ever before. One man said to me, it was the best Powder I ever kept and the best he ever used.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

DR. B. J. KENDALL Co., MORROW, La., May 8, '90.

Gents:—I think it my duty to render you my thanks for your far famed Kendall's Spavin Cure. I had a four year old filly which I prized very highly. She had a very severe swollen leg. I tried about eight different kinds of medicines which did no good. I purchased a bottle of your Kendall's Spavin Cure which cured her in four days.

I remain yours,
MARION DOWDEN.

Price $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. All druggists have it or can get it for you, or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors. DR. B. J. KENDALL CO., Enosburgh Falls, Vermont.

Mr. Howard Poust, of the school-ship Saratoga, reached home Tuesday. He wears an anchor-badge for good behavior, an honor which was conferred on only fifteen of the crew. On December 1st the Saratoga will sail for the West Indias to spend the Winter, and in the Spring will take a year's cruise. The sailors have all been discharged and hereafter the boys will have full charge of the vessel.—Shickshinny Echo.

Mrs. Charles Kunkel died at her home on Fifth street Saturday morning at two o'clock, aged 46 years. She was a victim of consumption, and has suffered many years with the dread disease. Her maiden name was Trump. A husband and two daughters isurvive her. Funeral services were held at the house Monday afternoon, conducted by Rev. P. A. Heilman, pastor of the Lutheran church, of which church the deceased has been a faithful member for many years. Interment in Rosemont Cemetery.

"The Broom-maker of Carlsbad" presented at the Eleventh Avenue opera house on Saturday evening, was greeted by a medium sized audience. Mr. James Reilly as Johann taking the leading role in a very satisfactory manner, and being ably seconded by Miss May Templeton, who assumed the character of Gretchen. The lullaby and broom songs sung by Mr. Reilly were enthusiastically received. In the latter song two small children sang the chorus, and the way they did it brought down outbursts of applause from all present.—Altoona, Pa., Tribune

This play will be given at the Opera House, Thursday and Friday of next week, Oct. 16th and 17th.

D. W. Miller of Audubon, Iowa who came east last April to visit relatives and friends in this, his native state and county, has made a thorough tour through the county. He visited the burial ground in Briarcreek township, where rest the remains of his parents and friends. His attention was called to the bad condition of the graves which he immediately repaired. He found the headstone of his grand-father Jacob Miller was broken in two pieces. Mr. T. L. Gunton was interviewed and a headstone erected, the expense of which was borne by Mr. Miller and his cousins, John, Joseph and Thomas Miller. Mr. D. W. Miller will return to Iowa about November 1st.

Michael McManamen and John McHugh, were brought to Bloomsburg from Centralia on Tuesday night on the warrant of Mary E. Kerrigan, charged with the murder of John Kerrigan. On the night of sept. 29th the three men got into an altercation at the corner of Locust Avenue and Park streets in Centralia, when sharp words brought on blows. Kerrigen threw a stone at McManamen, inflicting a severe wound. He in return threw a stone and knocked Kerrigan down; it is stated that the two men then jumped upon and kicked Kerrigan. They were immediately arrested for assault and battery and placed under $1000 bail. On Monday night Kerrigan died, and on Tuesday his wife had a warrant issued for the two on the charge of murder.

The Public School teachers of Bloomsburg, at the request of their Principal, met in the Director's room of the High School Building, Sept 16, to regularly organize a Teachers' Meeting, the object of which is to discuss educational topics, exchange views on methods of teaching and to develope any other subjects which may be of mutual benefit to teacher and pupil.

The second session convened Friday Oct. 3. All the teachers were present and spent a pleasant and profitable hour talking on the subject of "Spelling." The discussion was opened by the Primary teachers, who treated it in relation to their own work. It was then further developed by the teachers of the Intermediate, Grammar and High School grades. Each teacher dealt with the subject in reference to his or her own class-work. After choosing a topic for the next meeting a motion was made to adjourn.

A very slick swindler has been "doing" some of the country people in other sections, and it will be well to keep an eye out for fellows of his class. He calls at the farm house and salutes the lady about in this way: "Good morning, madam. I have just met your husband and purchased a calf from him. He could not change this $20 bill and told me to call at the house and get $16 change." The good woman, supposing it to be all right gives him the requisite change and he departs, saying that he will call for the calf in a day or two. When the husband comes in and he is told of the transaction, he thinks there must be some mistake, but as he has the $20 bill he concludes that he is not out much. But when he undertakes to pass the bill he discovers it to be a rank counterfeit, and then he appreciates the swindler's little game.'

Last evening Mr. James Reilly appeared in the "Broom-maker of Carlsbad" at the Opera house, supported by Miss May Templeton. The comedy has many popular features, the company is a good one, the scenery effective, and Mr. Reilly's song in which he introduces Little Hans and Edna was exceedingly good. He dressed the character in commendable taste, and as a German dialect comedian, judging from his name, is a genuine surprise. "The Broom-maker" will be produced to-night and to-morrow evening.—Reading Telegram, Oct. 8, 1890.

The Harvest Home communions in the pastorate of Rev. A. R. Glaze of Espy were held as follows: At Espy, Sunday morning, Sept. 22, and at Banby in the afternoon of the same day; at Buckhorn, Sunday morning, Oct. 5, and at New Columbia on the afternoon of that day. The preparatory services were held on Saturday afternoons and evenings previous. All the services were well attended. The communions were the largest since the present pastor is serving this people, which indicates growth and prosperity in all the congregations. Pastoral letters were again sent to all the members, and the offerings were as follows: At Buckhorn $16.27, at Espy $15.00, at New Columbia $9.10, at Canby $8.14, an increase in all the congregations upon former offerings.

Prof. S. W. Keller of Milton, teacher of vocal and instrumental music, is now instructing in the above pastorate, and is doing effectual work. We trust that this rare opportunity will be embraced by all who desire to be improved in the art of music.

North—Jackson.

Miss Henrietta Montgomery Jackson and Dr. James Harper North, Jr., an assistant surgeon of the United States Navy, now stationed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, were married at noon on Thursday Oct. 2, at the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth S. Jackson, the bride's mother, in Berwick. To the music of the Lohengrin Wedding March, played by an orchestra from Wilkes-Barre, who were stationed in the music room behind a screen of smilax and ox-eyed daisies, the bridal party entered the reception room. The groom, attired in full dress uniform, with cocked hat and sword, was accompanied by his best man, William Russel Bogart, of Bristol, R. I. Miss Jane Bowman Jackson, a sister of the bride, attended her as her maid of honor. She wore apple-green faille made up with crepe de chine and silver trimmings, and carried a handsome bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. The bride entered leaning upon the arm of her uncle, J. B. Seybert, of Philadelphia, who gave her away.

The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Dr. Marvin R. Vincent, of the Union Theological Seminary, of New York City.

The bride, the elder daughter of the late Colonel C. G. Jackson, wore a white satin gown trimmed with point lace and orange blossoms. The veil was tulle. Her ornaments were pearls and diamonds. In her hand she carried a bouquet of jessamine and lilies of the valley.

The attendance of guests was limited to the relatives of the bride and groom, and a few special friends. Among the guests from a distance were: Dr. J. H. North, Sr. of New York, father of the groom, also his sister, Miss Antoinette Richards North; Rev. Dr. C. C. McCabe, Hugh Watts and Miss Watts, Mrs. Vincent and Miss Vincent, and Charles Wetmore, all of New York city; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Seybert and Miss Seybert, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Woodin, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Woodin, and Mrs. Dickerman, of Hazelton, Mrs. Gilroy, of Williamsport; Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Reeder, of Bellefonte; and Mr. and Mrs. Graham, of Kingston.

BENTON FAIR.

This year has been the most profitable as well as the best fair in the history of the association. The first day of the fair, Wednesday October 1st, was bright and clear, and this possibly was a stimulus to the people that led them to bring an abundance of entries. In the building set apart for canned goods, needle work and fancy articles, every available space was taken. In the line of canned goods, especial attention was called to the fine peaches. There was also an abundance of plums and quinces, together with jellies and butters. Throughout the building, nicely arranged upon the shelves provided, or hanging overhead, was the fine work of the needle, quilts of all kinds, pillow shams, cushions, all articles of toilet, in fact, about everything that the fancy of the ladies could conceive of was here represented. Then there was the hair work, crayon work, fancy carved work, artists display, ancient articles, &c. The merits of the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine were explained by Mr. Kline, Benton's sewing machine agent. A fair in this section would be rather tame without the exhibit of J. Saltzer's sewing machine's and musical instruments, The extraordinary demand made for his machines at this season of the year somewhat limited his display. He had the celebrated White, New Domestic and New Home Sewing Machines, and the Estey, Worcester, Miller and United States Organs. A United States organ in piano case finished in one-quarter oak was very much admired by all who saw it.

The display of agricultural products was good, especially that of potatoes, corn, cabbage and apples. It was a treat even to see the fine apples when they are such a luxury this season.

B. I. Keller displayed fine taste in the selection of his stoves for the exhibit. He had some of the most beautiful single and double heaters it has ever been our pleasure to examine. He had also a beautiful range on exhibition, one of the best makes of the day. Keller Bros. are wide awake young men and believe in exhibiting and keeping for sale only the best goods. Appleman Brothers of Benton displayed some of their celebrated farm wagons; they are a well-made wagon and will outlast any wagon made. There was also an exhibit of buggies from the Mifflinburg Pa. Carriage works, and from Columbus, O. Carriage works. Ira McHenry of Benton the furniture dealer, had a nice exhibit of bedroom suits. Mr. McHenry has constantly a fine stock of furniture in his ware rooms.

In the department of poultry we observed chickens, geese, ducks and turkeys, all of which were of the very best.

In the stock pens there was cattle, sheep and hogs; the display was the best in the history of the fair. The farmer is taking pride in raising blooded stock. An additional feature of the fair was a dining table, kept by the Ladies Aid Society. A first-class meal was served for 35 cents or a fine stew of oysters for 25 cents.

The balloon man made three ascents, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Each time he went up about 800 to 1000 feet, when he alighted and descended with the parachute. When the Prof. alighted the balloon arose several hundred feet in the air, turned upsidedown when the heated air rapidly escaped and the balloon itself fell to the earth, near where the Prof. landed.

There were several gambling stands on the grounds that should have been excluded.

The whip and notion man drew large crowds of people who soon parted with their money while the man parted with his stock.

Mr. and Mrs. Weidman left on the 2.36 train for Easton, Pa., amid showers of rice, to spend a few days with the groom's parents and then leave for Minneapolis, their future home.

It was also the 44th marriage anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Dieffenbach.

East Benton.

Attending the Benton fair only on Saturday, observation and examination of exhibits was hardly possible owing to the large crowd in attendance. But this much we saw, that the exhibition was one of the best, largest and most numerous of quality and kind yet seen on the Benton fair grounds. The races were good, but not taking much interest therein we took no notes. Several good shows were on the ground, notably the Battle of Gettysburg. The large crowd was sorely disappointed in the balloon man's ascension. At five o'clock he was to go up. All was in readiness and at a given signal the parachute became detached from the balloon and the huge stack-like instrument ascended without its man. The multitude became disgusted, believing it to have been a designed trick, dispersed like rats forsaking a sinking ship. It was an accident, not a trick. The balloon was again quickly put in position and the ascent successfully made before dark, which was witnessed by hundreds of people.

The all absorbing topic on the street and among all the business men of town is the Jubilee or Carnival to be given by the ladies of town in the Opera House next Tuesday evening. What is it? 125 ladies to represent as many business men. How can they do it? The only answer can be given is "go and see." There will be about 150 ladies taking part and they will all be dressed differently. Nearly every one of them has a comic recitation. There will be tableaux, drills, music, and a grand march. The whole programme is full of comic scenes and delightful surprises and will make one of the most beautiful, interesting and amusing entertainments ever given in Bloomsburg.

Pensions! Veterans!!

The Disability Pension Bill.

Act of June 27, 1890, grants pensions to all ex-soldiers and sailors who served 90 days or more in the Army or Navy during the rebellion, and were honorably discharged, and who are now suffering from any permanent, mental or physical disability contracted since the war or during the war whether from disease, injuries or effects of old age, at the rate of from $6 to $12 per month, according to the degree of his disability for the performance of labor requiring the exertion of physical strength; provided the disability is not due to vicious habits. This pension is not restricted to the veterans who have to make their living by hard labor, but is equally due to professional men or clerks, provided they have an existing disability which would prevent the continuous exercise of the physical strength of an able-bodied man.

Those who have applied under the general laws and who are unable to prove up the pending claim can apply for and secure this pension and then continue the prosecution of the former claim and secure their arrears.

If you are now drawing a small pension, say $3 or $4 per month, you can take this pension instead, and if you have an application on file for increase or additional pension for new disabilities you can continue the prosecution of such claims while drawing the new pension, or you can file an original claim for a disability contracted in the service while drawing pension under this new act.

Widows, children, and dependent mothers and fathers are entitled under this act and can suspend the prosecution of any pending claim, and take this pension, and afterwards complete the prior claim and get arrears.

Having been duly appointed an Agent according to the rules and regulations of the Department of the Interior in the prosecution of such claims and having had success in a number of cases I am always prepared to give information and assist claimants, and will assure them success if they are able to establish the facts as required by law.

Those interested should call soon and claim their reward.

To Nervous Debilitated Men.

If you will send us your address we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dr. Dye's

Special Washington Correspondence.

Washington, D. C., October 6th, 1890. It appears that Quay has reached the limits of his resources in the direction of evolving campaign expedients. His last effort is one that is far more likely to recoil upon him and his candidate Delamater than anything he has yet attempted during the present canvass. It will be recalled that not long since, on a day set apart in the Senate for eulogies to the memory of the late Samuel J. Randall, Mr. Quay made his first public address since he has been a member of that body. It had been carefully prepared, and in substance, was fitting for the occasion. Had this been the end of the matter it would have stood as a creditable act in the otherwise unsavory career of the junior Senator from Pennsylvania.

It now transpires that the address in question was delivered from an altogether different purpose than that of doing honor to the memory of Mr. Randall. In short, it was part of a scheme to aid the election of Delamater. The speech of Senator Quay on the occassion mentioned has been printed in pamphlet form by the thousands, and it is to be distributed among all the Randall Democrats in Pennsylvania. The speech will go out with campaign documents, favoring Delamater's, election accompanying them.

In that way Quay hopes to attract the attention of Democrats by dragging from the grave their loved leader who only so recently was taken from public life. Disaffection being rife in the Republican ranks, Quay and Delamater can only hope to win by dividing the sentiment of the Democrats in the State. That this knave (Quay) should use the memory of one honored, loved and respected by the democratic party, is as gross an insult to dead and to living that he could devise.

Randall's record was that of honesty and capacity in the highest degree. Quay's career, from start to finish, has been that of a rascal, who makes but few pretenses of statesmanship, and whose sole success has been as a dishonest political manipulator. To couple Delamater's campaign documents with an eulogy on Samuel J. Randall, is a piece of impudence such as Quay alone would attempt. Every Democrat should rise up in arms against such sacrilege. Every decent republican should do the same.

Quay's descent as a political figure at the National Capital continues to be marked. While the President was at Cresson, Senator Quay sent a telegram to Private Secretary Halford announcing that he (Quay) would pass through Cresson on his way to Beaver, and would be glad to time his trip so as to have an interview with the President while en route. There was no occasion in the world for such an interview, except to afford Quay an opportunity to show that he was still received by the President. The scheme did not work. Private Secretary Halford replied that the President had arranged so many excursions into the surrounding country that he could make no arrangements in advance. This is but another evidence that the Penhsylvania Boss is no longer within touch of the Administration. His pull at the public test is ended, and the sooner the Republicans of the Keystone State cut loose from him the better they will fare.

AN INGLORIOUS FOURTH.

ERROR OF THE POPULAR BELIEF THAT THE DATE IS INDEPENDENCE DAY.

On October 30, 1889, a monument was unveiled at Dover, Delaware, in honor of Cæsar Rodney, one of Delaware's representatives in the Continental Congress. The oration on that occasion was delivered by Mr. Bayard, Secretary of State in President Cleveland's Cabinet. In the course of his speech Mr. Bayard read a letter written by Thomas McKean to Cæsar Agustus Rodney, dated August 22, 1813, which contained the following paragraph about Independence Day:

"Now that I am on this subject I will tell you some truths not generally known. In the printed public journals of Congress for 1776, volume 2, it would appear that the Declaration of Independence was signed on the 4th of July by the members whose names are there inserted; but the fact is not so. For no persons signed it on that d ay nor for many days after, and among the names subscribed one was against it—Mr. Read—and seven were not in Congress on that day, namely: Messrs. Morris, Rush, Clymer, Smith, Taylor and Ross, of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Thornton, of New Hampshire; nor were the six gentlemen last named at that time members. The five for Pennsylvania were appointed delegates by the convention of that State on the 20th of July, and Mr. Thornton entered Congress for the first time on the 4th of November following."

Secretary Bayard was not the first man to tell the country that the Fourth of July had been burning powder and shooting cannons under false pretenses, for Judge Chamberlain, of Boston, exposed the Fourth's false charms several years before. The Judge's investigations lead us to re-write the history of those eventful days as follows:

On the 2d day of July, 1776, the Continental Congress at Philadelphia decided that the Colonies were big boys now, and entitled to set up in business for themselves. So a committee was appointed to write this announcement on coffee-colored paper, in dim ink, and to add thereto a few remarks about the King of England calculated to put him in a cheerful frame of mind.

This declaration was read two days later, on the 4th, and the members liked it very well, but did not sign it, and it is this ommission which makes the day a pretender as a national anniversary. On the 19th of July Congress decided to have the document written a little more distinctly, and on parchment, and to have it signed by every member, but it was not until August 2 that the most of the delegates were ready to attach their signatures, and thereby resolve to hang together in order to avoid hanging separately in case King George should resent their writing in such a familiar way.—Santa Claus.

The Vanderbilt Children.

HOW THEY ARE EDUCATED AND TRAINED.

Although all the members of the Vanderbilt family entertain on a magnificent scale, says a writer in the Ladies' Home Journal for October, they never permit their children to remain up late at night, are extremely careful in their education, and, in a word, are fitting them for life as well as any mother or father could do. It is one of the rules in all the houses of the Vanderbilts, that the children shall go to bed early and rise early. The little boys and girls are up before seven o'clock in the morning. Their nurses immediately take charge of them see that they are properly bathed and dressed, and then they go down to breakfast, which is served at half-past seven o'clock. It is an unpretentious meal, with plenty of fresh milk, eggs, oatmeal, and a bit of steak or a chop that will add strength to their physique and color to their cheeks. After breakfast there is an hour of study. There is something for these little ones to do at all times during the day. They go through their studies systematically, and then, about half-past nine, are taken out for a walk. They are allowed to romp in the streets and in the parks to their hearts' content. At eleven o'clock they are brought home, and a light luncheon of milk and bread is served, after which there are more studies—either French, German or drawing—and then another breathing spell—it may be horseback riding, or a drive out through the Park and along the country roads. Back they all come about four o'clock, and there is another hour of study, and then they are through for the day. They are allowed to do just as they please until tea time, when, after their meal, they spend a pleasant hour or so with their fathers and mothers and others who may drop in to call. Promptly at eight o'clock they are all in bed to sleep soundly, and get up the next morning and go through the same programme. So it is not strange that all the children of the Vaanderbilt family are further in advance of their little friends in the matter of education. For they study, study, study all the time. They are all fond of music and most of them can play on the piano. The girls are learning to play on the harp, and the boys are famous among their friends as violinists, and banjo players. If you were to see these children on the street, you would not for a moment suspect that they were other than children of parents in ordinary circumstances. They make no display at elaborate dress. The eldest of Cornelius Vanderbilt's daughters is dressed plainly in little, pretty cheap dresses without any braid or ornamentation. She wears snug-fitting cloth jackets, and the little cap that sits gracefully on her head, could be duplicated for a couple of dollars.

Sick Chamber Hints.

BURNING SULPHUR IS DANGEROUS AND IT SHOULD NOT BE DONE.

The practice often prevalent, of burning sulphur in the sick room or in the habitable rooms of the house during the continuance of a case of diphtheria or other contagious disease is productive of evil and should never be allowed. We have often found the air almost irrespirable from this cause, practiced under the belief that the continual burning of a little sulphur would destroy the germs or poisoning of the disease and thereby protect those of the house hold not already infected. This theory is wholly an erroneous one. Many experiments have been made which show that the density of sulphur fumes (sulphurous acid) must be greater than can be tolerated by a human being in order to destroy the germs of disease.

The air of the sick room, bad enough at the best, should be kept as pure as possible, it should not be vitiated by the fumes of burning sulphur. The latter acts as an irritant to the air passages against which the lungs protest, besides consuming some of the oxygen of the air which is so necessary to the support of life, thus doing positive harm to the patient. Still more, it impairs the natural powers of resistance to disease, and thereby indirectly becomes an agent to bring about a condition it is popularly supposed to retard.—From the Trained Nurse.

Twenty Three Years In The Drug Business

I have been a druggist twenty-three years, and have sold all the patent medicines which are known in this country, and can truthfully say that I have never known a remedy for Blood Diseases of more value than S. S. S. (Spift's Specific) Mr. A, a customer, was troubled with an eruption of the skin on the back of his hands, and had in vain sought relief of the best local medical talent, also of some of the most noted physicians in New York, and as a last resort spent some months in Paris, France, under treatment of the physicians there, and had secured only temporary relief. After all this treatment he was finally cured, sound and well, by Swift's Specific.

Another customer, Mr. B., had suffered for many years with Blood Poison, and thought he had been cured by mercurial treatment, but the disease returned, accompanied by Rheumatism of a bad type. A dozen small bottles of S. S. S. made a perfect and lasting cure.

Photographing A Protest.

The Republican Campaign Committee has photographed the empty seats on the Democratic side of the House, with a view to using the picture as an illustration of "the Democratic Idea of Doing Business."

The Democratic Committee should now have printed, to post under these photographs, Thomas B. Reed's defence of the refusal of a Republican minority, in which he joined, to vote to make a quorum in the Forty-sixth Congress, Said Mr. Reed in 1880:

"The privilege, which the (Republican) minority of the House at the last session availed itself of is a privilege which every minority has availed itself of since the foundation of this Government. It is a valuable privilege for the country that the minority shall have the right by the extraordinary mode of proceeding to call the attention of the country to measures which a party in a moment of madness and of party feeling is endeavoring to enforce upon the citizens of this land. And it works equally well with regard to all parties, for all parties have their times when they need to be checked, so that they may receive the opinions of the people who are their constituents, and who are interested in the results of their legislation."

The Republican minority, ten years ago, sat silent and refused to vote, as it had a right to do. It said to the Democrats: "If you wish to pass partisan measures, or to unseat Republicans, bring your majority here and do it, but we decline to vote to give you a quorum, and hold ourselves responsible to our constituents for our action." Speaker Reed's assertion of the right to count members as present when they decline to vote, in the absence of a Republican quorum, compelled the Democrats to leave the Chamber to avoid being made unwilling parties to the steaing of two seats on their side of the House.

If the Republican campaign managers think they can make any capital out of this incident they will probably discover their mistake. The fairminded and sober-thinking voters will agree with Mr. Reed that the minority was justified in using "this extraordinary mode of proceeding" to "call the attention of the country to measures which a party in a moment of madness and party feeling" was engaged in perpetrating. There is a boomerang quality in this photographed protest.—The World.

Malaria.

Literally means bad air. Poisonous germs arising from low, marshy land, or from decaying vegetable matter, are breathed into the lungs, taken up by the blood, and unless the vital fluid is purified by the use of a good medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla, the unfortunate victim is soon overpowered. Even in the more advanced cases, where the terrible fever prevails, this successful medicine has effected remarkable cures. Those who are exposed to malarial or other poisons should keep the blood pure by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

A DUDE'S GENTLE REBUKE TO TWO OBSTREPEROUS COWBOYS.

A boot and shoe drummer of this city, away up in the T. P. A. and a good fellow all around and veraciously known all over the wide West, quite soulfully told this among the last stories of a number related by traveling men last night at the Midland Hotel: "I was," said he, "a short time ago out in a little town in Nebraska, where you could without imagination look over the imaginary line dividing Nebraska and Wyoming, and see acres upon acres of the new sister. I was at the station of about the dullest little sun-dried town I ever was in, waiting for the train, late, as usual some two or three hours.

"This little town was on a branch road, I'll not name it, for 'there's a chiel among us taking notes and he'll prent 'em,' as I expect to go back there again. There were two other commercial men waiting as I was. One was a dudish-looking sort of a fellow, got up with a sash and the other unities. He sat down in the shadow of the shed that served for a depot, and opening a small grip pulled out a book and began reading, reading and reading intently, so intently that he sprawled himself along the length or width of the platform Two buckskin-pantalooned cow-boys on pinto ponies rode down to the depot and, tethering their ponies, came under the roof of the shed. They began in a short time nudging each other jocularly, and finally one got up and walked over towards 'the dude' and accidently stumbled over his feet. The cowboy apologized sarcastically and the dude like Toots, said: 'It's of no consequence.'

Then the cowboy again performed his accidental act and an apology was made and accepted quite naively. Returning to his comrade there was quite an hilarious pow-wow by the cowboys and then the second one started out for his share of the fun. Emboldened by the two trips of his comrade over the dude's patent-leather inclosed feet, the cowboy disdained to stumble over them, but came down with both feet square on the shins of the dude-dressed reader. 'Excuse me.' 'Certainly,' was answered, but with the reply the dude pulled an apple from his pocket, and tossing it into the air, drew a revolver from his grip, and shooting, split the apple squarely in two.

He threw up another apple and performed the same act, and then turning to the two cowboys who had clustered together themselves and four big revolvers strapped to 'em the dude, pointing his revolver at the cowboys, said: 'I am a little on the shoot myself and if you fellows don't leave very soon I'll divide you two fellows like I did the apples, or I'll break up your partnership.' The cowboys had the discretion of the King of France, who marched 10,000 men up a hill and down again when he saw the enemy on the other side, and, sneakingly seeking their ponies, mounted them and rode away. 'The dude,' said the relator, and the story he avers is true, 'belongs to one of Kansas City's shooting clubs.—Kansas City Globe.
